FAMILY
SEWING MACHINES

ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION
AND Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make a seam to resist, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have a perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer, should stitch, fell, run and gather; and always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk, above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing, tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel feed; no other is in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screwdriver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to soil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel.

The undersigned are General Agents for the general superintendence of these unrivalled machines for Pacific States and Western Coast of Mexico.

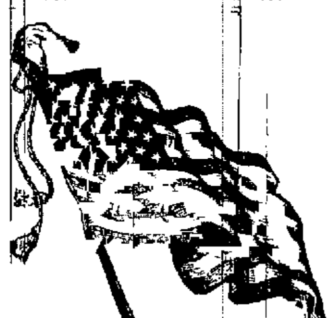
OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY



No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and behold it! ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 5, 1862

The Designs of Floyd and other Rebels in relation to the Pacific Coast.

In our notice, yesterday, of Floyd's disclosures at a secession banquet in Richmond, we neglected to refer to an important fact, which disclosed the plans of the rebel leaders in regard to the Pacific Coast. They had designed and expected that the States of California and Oregon and the Territory of Washington should begin rebellion against the government. The Members of Congress from California had given out in what manner they intended these States and Territories should take part in the drama. And it cannot be found in all the acts and speeches of the Senator from this State any other evidence than such as would go to show that he was acting in entire concert with the secessionists of California and the rebel Floyd and his adjuncts. It was the design of all these rebels that California, Oregon and Washington should be erected into a "Pacific Republic." Even at so late a date as the issue of the paper by Gov. Whiteaker—and which was not written by himself (only enough of it to exhibit the ears at its close)—shadowed forth that Pacific Republic.

What has become of the California Representative Scott, the Senator Gwin, the son of the Oregon Senator and many other conspirators of this coast? There cannot be a question in the mind of any well informed man what the intentions of these men were in giving a direction to the rebellion here.

That they were and have been acting in concert with the rebels in the East—and that to them was assigned an important part in the rebellion, is proved by undeniable facts that are brought to bear upon the case.

One great object sought to be accomplished by the conspirators, was to disarm, disorganize and demoralize the Government, and another, to place the arms of Government where they could be readily seized when the conspirators here sounded the tocsin of rebellion. In pursuance of this scheme, a large amount of rifles and muskets, and other materials of war, were taken from the arsenals in the loyal States and sent to the Pacific coast and deposited in the California arsenal—where they could readily be seized by traitors. These arms, if we recollect rightly, amounted to some fifty or sixty thousand. They were not required for any other purpose here than to be used in a war against the Government. Scarcely had the officers of the Government, after the inauguration of Mr. Lincoln, time to look about them, before the treacherous movement of sending these arms to the Pacific coast was discovered, and the movements in contemplation to bring them into use against the Constitutional authorities. It was known that General Johnson was acting in complicity with the rebels. The emergency was pressing. General Sumner was dispatched incog., to take charge of the Government forces and Government property and to dismiss this General Johnston. At the very moment when the conspirators were about to act, General Sumner appeared, and their schemes for the time failed. General Johnson, caught in his treason, disappointed, disgraced, naturally moved off across the continent to join the rebels.

Do not our readers recollect the storm of indignation that was sought to be raised in California, by the confidants of Johnson, Lane, Scott, Floyd and Jeff Davis, against the General Government for the efficient course they had adopted to arrest rebellion in California? Do not the readers of the Portland Advertiser remember how "Abe Lincoln" and Gen. Sumner were denounced in that paper for the removal of the traitor Johnson from the command of the United States force on this coast? This same Portland Advertiser which insults the common sense of its readers by pretending that it has a high regard for the Union and the Constitution!

The rebels thus headed in California did not despair. They sought to reorganize and add strength to their party, defeated in the Presidential election. They spoke confidently of their power to elect a Governor avowedly in favor of the rebellion, and, anticipating success in the election, they believed still that their darling project of a Pacific Republic was within their reach. Do not our readers recollect the great interest the rebels in this State and the Portland Advertiser, manifested in regard to the result of that election? McConnell, the candidate for Governor, avowed himself in sympathy with the rebellion, and the Advertiser denounced the Union Democratic candidate and the Republican candidate, and prophesied the election of McConnell. It was at this time the Portland Advertiser prayed to God that he would paralyze the arms of the Government in its efforts to sustain this Union.

Rebellion was defeated in California by the defeat of McConnell. Thus twice has the peace and prosperity of this country been saved from the outbreak of rebellion. Our people scarcely can realize the dangers from which we have escaped.

We charge that the leaders of the secession party here have been and are in complicity with the rebels—that they would overturn heaven and earth, if in their power, to place this State in opposition to the Government—that they are acting in concert, from one end of the State to the other, for this purpose, and if the loyal people of this State are to be saved from the catastrophe sought to be inflicted upon them, it can only be by going to the polls as one man and there sustain at the June election the nominations to be made at the Union State Convention to be held at Eugene.

Pennsylvania.

We often notice in the abortion of democracy here, yclept the Advertiser, much said about the "gallant democracy of Pennsylvania." It is gallant and patriotic, no question of that—and so is the republican party of that State. She is a pattern to other States of devotion to the Constitution and Government—gallantly sending her brave sons into the field for their support. Pennsylvania has raised and equipped for this war one hundred and thirteen thousand nine hundred and fifty nine men—beating New York, at the last accounts, three thousand five hundred and seventy. She rejoices in the successes of our arms over the rebels. A man who would stand up there and say to such, that "they are worse than traitors," if he was indeed a man, would soon be ducked or find his way to Lafayette.

Not content with what she had done to crush out rebellion, Pennsylvania is anxious to do more. Hear what a correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin, writing from Washington, says:

"Pennsylvania is not satisfied with furnishing her quota of troops required by the General Government. She wants to do something more, and hence she is getting up a grand naval demonstration, under the name of the 'Pennsylvania Expedition,' to go, I presume, whithersoever the Government may require their services. For this expedition the State has now in camp nine regiments of infantry, numbering 7,850 men, one regiment and two squadrons of cavalry, numbering 1,600, and one regiment and three batteries of artillery, amounting to 1,380 men. The total of all arms is 10 830. This enterprise, it is said, is being actively forwarded by Gov. Curtin, with the approbation of the War Department. Under the arrangements now on foot, the expedition could be fully organized and got ready for embarkation within the course of three or four weeks.

The same State is considering with favor the intimation from the War Department of its desire to see a reserved corps of 10,000 troops raised within its borders. Governor Sprague of Rhode Island, has already acted upon a like intimation from the Department, and Governor Andrews of Massachusetts is about to follow in the same direction."

The democracy of Oregon and the democracy of Pennsylvania have no more fellowship and communion—than light and darkness—patriotism and treason—heaven and hell.

"The Advertiser stands upon the same platform with which the gallant democracy of Indiana, Pennsylvania and Illinois gave to black republicans such a withering rebuke."—Portland Advertiser.

The gallant democracy of the States mentioned are pouring out their best blood in crushing the rebellion and in sustaining the government and laws, while the Portland Advertiser prays that the people may be paralyzed in their endeavors to sustain the Union and the government, and denounces the democratic patriots in the States mentioned who rejoice in Union victories, as "worse than traitors."

There was just such a paper as this Advertiser published in Peoria, Ill., a short time ago, called the National Democrat, which was suppressed, with the entire approbation of the democratic and republican parties in Illinois.

A treasonable secret society has been exposed in Indiana. The society was organized to oppose the war and resist the collection of taxes. The flight of that meanest of Indiana traitors, John G. Davis, to Secessia, is supposed to have been occasioned by his knowledge that his treachery would soon be made manifest, and that he had to take his choice between Richmond and Fort Warren.

A SAD DEFEAT TO THE SECESHERS.—At the late city election at Marysville, Cal., two tickets were run, 1st, the "Union Ticket," and 2d, "The Constitutional Union Democratic Ticket." Secesh supported the latter, and was beat largely.

General Buckner sent a white flag to Gen. Grant, at Fort Donelson, desiring a parley. Grant returned for an answer: "I propose to advance immediately on your works!" and it was done.

DALLES CITY ELECTION.—This election resulted as follows: J. S. Reynolds, Recorder; H. W. Hedrick, Marshal; P. Craig, Treasurer; R. I. Miller, E. P. Fitzgerald, B. J. Drew, P. Bolton, and A. Clark, Trustees.

A Noble Indorsement.

The Hon. David Tod, a life long and eminent politician of the democratic school, who has lately been elected Governor of Ohio, by the Union men of that State, and as good a patriot as ever breathed, recently made a speech at Cleveland, Ohio, in which, after some remarks concerning the progress of events thus far, and the hopes for the future, he gave some of the results of a recent visit to Washington.

"From a free intercourse with those in authority, he could say truly that he believed all to be going on well. He believed that Mr. Lincoln was an honest man, a man of rather extraordinary firmness, with an eye single to the putting down of this rebellion. As to the result of this rebellion, whether it be to put down or perpetuate slavery, Mr. Lincoln never stops for a moment to consider, but aims merely to raise aloft and protect the flag of our country. [Applause.]

He may err at times, but that he has the welfare and the interests of the country at heart I know, and that he has an intention to do his duty regardless of politics I know. I know, too, that he believed it to be his duty to remove Fremont, painful as was the act to him; and that the slavery proclamation had nothing to do with it whatsoever. Moreover when the people are placed in possession of the facts, nineteen twentieths of them will concur in it. Gen. Scott's retirement was also a painful act rendered necessary by evident causes.

With regard to the Cabinet, I learned from those best qualified to judge, from bankers and brokers, that the finances of the nation are being managed with consummate skill.

I also renewed my acquaintance with Secretary Cameron, and although I had previously, perhaps, been a little prejudiced, and had listened somewhat too attentively to adverse reports, I am satisfied he administers the affairs of war with reasonable ability. He is a shrewd man; he possesses diversity of talent, and is self made. He is capable of long continued labor, scrutinizes closely, and will, I am satisfied, carry on the affairs entrusted to him as cheap as any could.

Mr. Seward I found to be, as you all know, a man of extraordinary talent. I was very happy to learn from his own lips that the United States has nothing to fear from foreign rivals. His letter concerning lake fortifications had startled me a little, but I was pleased to be told that our relations with England and France were never more amicable than at the present time.

I also made the acquaintance of General McClellan, a modest, self-possessed, self reliant great man, able to be in the saddle night and day, and incapable of being flattered by the commendations that pour in upon him, a man with a large heart, and with no political aspirations to minister to. [Loud applause.] He is worthy of applause, and I have not the slightest doubt that our destinies are completely safe in his hands.

I say, then, that I believe all to be well with us, and that the loyal States will come safely out of this rebellion in a few months and thus verify the predictions of our forefathers, that man is capable of self-government."

This is the way for an honest patriot to speak. He does not say "I am a democrat," or I am anything else, now that I am elected though I closed my mouth before the election, and made believe that I had nothing to do with party. He talks as every good and loyal man should talk in these times. We must know no party until this hellish rebellion is thoroughly stamped out. After that parties will re-organize and each citizen attach himself to such side as will nearest represent his views upon the questions of the day as heretofore. Political dirt flinging in this hour of our trial, is eminently disgraceful, and can have no other effect, than to belittle the utterer, cause suspicion of his loyalty, and weaken the cause which he professes to support.

CITY.

THE OREGONIAN has a larger CIRCULATION LIST than any other paper published in this City.

THE DAILY OREGONIAN may be had at the Franklin Book Store, opposite the Post Office

[illegible] Meetings To-night.—We publish this morning notices for meetings to be held in the different precincts for the purpose of making proper nominations for city officers, to be elected on Monday next. It is very important that good and true men should be selected, and for that purpose let the voters in each ward largely turn out and put in nomination reliable men to make a choice set of officers for the ensuing year. Don't forget the meetings to-night. A good ticket ought to be put out.

Theatrical.—Shakspeare's great tragedy of "Macbeth" will be presented with a strong cast to-night. Mrs Pope as Lady Macbeth, Mr. [illegible] as Macbeth, and Mr Beatty as [illegible]. This is the best opportunity of seeing this tragedy well played ever offered in this city. Secure seats early.

Circuit Court.—To day will end this session of the Circuit Court for this County. The docket was unusually large and quite a large number of indictments were found, which added to the length of the term. A very large amount of business has been transacted during the present term of Court.

New Ferry Boat.—A new Ferry Boat will shortly take the place of the old tub, which for a long while has been an eye sore to the city of Portland. The boat is finished and the engine of the old boat was transferred to the new to-day.

On a Drunk.—Yesterday we noticed an Indian on one of our streets tolerably well "tight." He was on the muscle, and dared any body to meet him on the "tented field." We left him alone with his glory.

The Julia.—This steamer took up on yesterday a large crowd of passengers. [illegible] already begins to look dull, at least the streets have not that crowded appearance they have borne for the last month.

[illegible] State Convention.—The Delegates to the State Convention from the lower country leave this morning on the steamer [illegible] for Oregon City, whence they will proceed on the Relief from Canemah direct to [illegible].

[illegible] Mail.—The Express brought down a large mail last evening. Hereafter we may look for the regular Overland [illegible] as the roads are becoming quite good.

[illegible]ional.—Congress has appropriated [illegible] hundred thousand dollars for the construction of a fort at the mouth of the Columbia.

[illegible] and New Store.—John R. Fos[illegible] have opened at their store on Front street a large stock of hardware, comprising [illegible] articles demanded by miners, farmers, [illegible] house-keepers, and others. This firm is selling their superior stock of goods at a small advance on cost.

[illegible] Shoes.—Messrs. Wiberg & Sparrow of the City Boot and Shoe Store have received a large and well selected stock of boots and shoes of every style imaginable, from a child's shoe up to a pair of heavy boots suitable for miners. A good fit can be had there.

[illegible] interesting story on the fourth page of this morning's issue.

Second Ward Meeting

[illegible] of the Second Ward are requested to meet at [illegible] this evening at 7½ o'clock, to nominate [illegible] of the City Council and other officers with [illegible] in nominating City Officers for the ensuing [illegible].

Third Ward Union Meeting

The Union voters of the Third Ward of the City of Portland will meet at the COURT HOUSE on Saturday the 5th of April, 1862, at 7 o'clock for the purpose of nominating suitable candidates for Councilmen and [illegible] to be voted for on Monday next.

[illegible] go to the Mines.—Miners who now propose going to Salmon River, Rhodes Creek and thereabouts, should not start out unprepared to travel a cold and starved out country, for it is known by those who have come from above the Cascades that the country is now bare of all kinds of provisions, by its supplies being cut off by the long stoppage of navigation. [illegible] we would enjoin all who wish to go through comfortably, and return with their pockets full of Rocks, to call at [illegible] TAPPER BROTHERS, opposite the Upper Wharf, and supply themselves with Flour, Bacon, Beans, [illegible], Clothing, Rubber and Nailed Boots [illegible] necessary for mining purposes, before [illegible] for the Land of Promise.

Benton County Union Convention.

The Convention met at the Court house in Corvallis on Saturday 29th March, 1862 and organized by electing William Matzer, Chairman, and W H Spencer, Secretary.

The following named persons were elected Delegates to attend the Union State Convention to be held at Eugene City on the 9th day of April next: A G Hovey, W H Spencer, Martin Woodcock, A J Thayer and J R Bayley.

The following nominations were made for County Officers: Senator, A G Hovey; Representatives—C P Blair, A M Witham; County Judge—Jas R Bayley; Commissioners—James Gingles and James Edwards; Clerk—Horace G Burnett; Sheriff—J C Alexander; Assessor—Jesse Wood; Treasurer—George Mercer; Superintendent Common Schools—F H Stilson; Surveyor—H B Nichols; Coroner—J C Kriesbbaum.

It was unanimously

Resolved, That the Union men of the County make a pull, a long pull, and a pull all together, regardless of political antecedents to elect the ticket thus nominated."

Spirited and patriotic resolutions were passed approving of the policy of the Administration in putting down the present wicked rebellion, &c.

It was ordered by the Convention that all the Union papers in the State be requested to publish the foregoing.

AN ORDINANCE granting the right of way to lay pipes for the conveyance of water through the streets of the City of Portland.

The people of the City of Portland do Ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. That W. S. Ladd and his associates are hereby granted the privilege to lay pipes for the purpose of conducting water through the streets of the City of Portland, under the conditions and regulations hereinafter named.

SEC. 2. That the privilege herein granted shall be exclusive for the period of thirty years from the date of the approval of this Ordinance, except the above named parties fail to comply with the provision of this ordinance. And in such case the rights and privileges herein granted shall be null and void.

SEC. 3. That the said W. S. Ladd and his associates shall furnish an ample and sufficient supply of good and wholesome water for all public and private uses that may be required within the limits of the City of Portland for the period of said exclusive privilege granted in Section (2) two of this Ordinance. Otherwise the exclusive privilege shall be deemed forfeited.

SEC. 4. That the said W. S. Ladd and his associates shall cause to be laid not less than one mile of distributing main pipe, and to supply the same with pure and wholesome water within three years after the approval of this Ordinance. Provided, the Board of Common Council for a good cause may extend the time for laying the distributing main and supplying the same with water as provided in this Section, one year or less.

SEC. 5. That all mains, distributing mains, and distributing pipes, for the conveyance of water under the privileges granted by this Ordinance, shall be sunk not less than three feet deep below the surface of all graded streets, and to the same depth below any grade that may be established hereafter by the Common Council for any street or streets. Provided, That the said party or parties to whom the privileges herein are granted shall in all cases of laying pipes for the conveyance of water as herein provided, cause the street or side walk under which said pipe shall be conveyed to be relaid in as good condition as before the same was removed for that purpose; or if any damage shall arise to the street or streets by reason of the bursting or leakage of the pipes, the aforesaid parties shall cause the same to be repaired, at their own proper cost and expense, without delay; and in case they shall neglect or refuse to comply with any of the provisions of this Section, the said W. S. Ladd and his associates shall be liable for the cost of any repairs, and ten per cent damages to be added thereto, together with the costs of suit, to be recovered before the City Recorder. Provided, The complaint for any case of violation of this Section shall be made by the party or parties owning the lot or lots adjoining or abutting thereto, or by the Street Commissioner in the name of the City of Portland, within fifteen days thereafter.

SEC. 6. That the City shall be at liberty to take from the main pipes, for the use of the Fire Department of this City, free of charge to the City, all the water that may be required for the houses of the several companies now organized and belonging to the Fire Department, for all the cisterns now built or now authorized to be built, for fire purposes, and also for twenty hydrants of size not less than the service hose now in use by the Fire Department, for the use of the Fire Department, and to be located at such places as the Common Council may hereafter determine.

SEC. 7. This Ordinance shall take effect from and after its approval by the Mayor.

Passed the Common Council March 28th 1862. JOHN McCRAKEN, President
H BOYD, Clerk.

Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL, and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or lozenges, let the Cold, Cough or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it as well as its proprietor far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. The Seven Ages.

All the world's a stage
And all the men and women merely players
They have their exits and their entrances
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages

At first the Infant
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms
And then the whining School-boy with his satchel
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school

And then the Lover;
Sighing like a furnace with a woful ballad
Made to his mistress' eyebrow

Then a Soldier
Full of strange oaths and bearded like the pard
Jealous in honor, sudden and quick in quarrel
Seeking the bubble reputation
Even in the cannon's mouth

And then the Justice
In fair round belly with good capon lined
With eyes severe, and beard of formal cut
Full of wise saws and modern instances,
And so he plays his part.

The sixth age shifts
Into the lean and slipper'd pantaloon,
With spectacles on nose, and pouch on side;
His youthful hose well saved, a world too wide
For his shrunk shank; and his big manly voice
Turning again toward childish treble, pipes
And whistles in its sound

Last scene of all,
That ends this strange, eventful history
In second childishness, and mere oblivion;
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything

The Heroine of Bear's Hill.

A THRILLING SKETCH

The light of an October sun fell in slanting rays of gold upon our fair gem of the mountains—the Winnipissegee The waves rippled and curled in the soft breeze, and fanned the green islands in rufflings of silver

It was a glorious scene—that wide, glittering lake, that clear cloudless sky, and that eternal wall of mountains, keeping a silent watch over all! Perhaps some such thoughts flitted through the mind of farmer Horton's good wife as she sat leisurely darning her husband's stockings in the ruddy glow which came through the uncurtained window

"Where can that child be? I do wonder—strange! it's nigh three o'clock and she's not home yet! Strange enough!"

"What's strange, Sally?" put in a rough voice from the doorway, and Mrs Horton's husband entered the apartment

"Why, I sent Mary to the forty-acre lot with Bill's dinner, about two hours ago and she ain't home yet Them apples never 'll be pared I don't see why she don't come! she's had time enough"

Mrs. Horton was in that uncomfortable state between grief and anger she was troubled about the absence of her child fearing some evil had befallen her, and she was a little inclined to be angry because she was not back to do the work she had assigned to her.

"Wall, wall, Sally," said Mr Horton, good-humoredly, "don't be fretty; maybe she's got to pickin' berries—gals will be gals, ye know, and Mary's as good as any man child, But," he added in a strangely altered voice, and with an unnatural paleness creeping over his honest face," "which path did she take?"

"Which path? why, that over the hill to be sure! It's a half-mile nigher that way"

"Good God!" exclaimed John Horton, striking his forehead, "I feared it. Sallie, hand me that powder-horn Quick, quick!"

He snatched down the old musket which had done glorious duty in the Revolution, and commenced loading it in frantic haste

"Lawful goodness!" ejaculated Sallie rising in alarm, "what is it?"

"What is it? Sally, I seed Tom Smith not an hour ago, and he told me that this morning, as Sam and Jim were going over the hill there came up a bear—a big black savage she bear, with cubs, right out of the bushes! They didn't dare to fight her without guns, but they are going to get up a crew towards night, and kill the critter if possible. Poor little Mary Keep up a good heart, wife, maybe it ain't so bad as I fear!" and shouldering his musket, Farmer Horton hurried out of the house and struck into the dismal path over the hill.

It is a terrible thing to have a child—a creature of your own flesh and blood—exposed to imminent danger, and yet know yourself powerless to aid, impotent to help Farmer Horton went on, a dreadful fear tugging at his heart strings, and urging him to renewed and continued effort

The summit of the hill was reached—in the dry sand he discovered the footsteps of his child, another incentive to exertion—and he flew, rather than walked, down the steep path way.

But stay! his blood freezes, his life congeals in horror at the spectacle!

Before him lay the open field of the forty acre lot. At the extremity of this stretch of land there was a huge rock, with a few stunted shrubs, and here and there, a handful of sickly moss clinging to its sides.

His crippled son George—disabled from an early attack of disease—had gone into the field that morning with his brother William not because he could assist him in his labor, but because his beautiful soul dearly loved the sweet communion of the great hills, and the tender blue of the silent sky

Now, looking down upon the field, the father saw his children, and like a reed in the wind, he shuddered at the sight William lay extended upon the ground, apparently lifeless, and but a few paces from him stood Mary Her bonnet had fallen off, and her brown curls were floating in the breeze—a mass of dusky gold. Her right arm was stretched out towards the rock; her left—John Horton gave a sharp, stern groan as he observed it! Black and terrible in her maddened fury a monster bear half crouched at the side of the girl and down the yawning mouth of the animal was thrust the fair arm of Mary, down even to the shoulder

For the meaning of the scene the father was not long in conjecturing, a reason. Following the direction of the right arm he saw that George the cripple, was slowly nearing the rocks; a moment more and he would scale it! Once upon the summit and he was safe! The father saw the quivering of that slender arm, the torn and mutilated flesh—in another moment the bear would be free and then—

He levelled his musket

"Mary, my girl, turn your body to the right!"

It was a fearful moment but John Horton's hand never trembled A brave man's never does in the hour of trial Mary obeyed his order, and calm and pale she stood with that deadly weapon pointed at her that ravenous animal just ready to spring upon her form!
